Our legal basis for using this data

We only collect and use pupils' personal data when the law allows us to. Most commonly, we process it where:

- We need to comply with the law
- We need to use it to carry out a task in the public interest
- In order to support your child's education

Sometimes, we may also use your personal information where:

- Parents/carers have given us permission to use it in a certain way
- We need to protect your interests (or someone else's interest) such as providing medical information to emergency services

Where we have obtained consent to use a pupil's data, the parents/carers may withdraw this at any time. We will make this clear when we ask for permission, and explain how to go about withdrawing consent.

Some of the reasons listed above for collecting and using pupils' personal data overlap, and there may be several grounds which justify our use of this data.

How we collect pupil information

Pupil data is essential for the Trusts' operational use and for the Trust to be able to provide an education for the pupil.

While the majority of information we collect about pupils is mandatory, there is some information that can be provided voluntarily. Whenever we seek to collect information from you or your child, we will make it clear whether providing it is mandatory or if you have a choice in this.

In some cases we collect pupil information via Common Transfer File (CTF) or secure file transfer from previous school.

How we store this data

We keep personal information about pupils while they are a pupil in our Trust. We may also keep it after you have left the school, where the law requires to us.

We will keep personal information about your son/daughter while they are a pupil in one of our Trust schools. We may also keep it after they have left the school, where the law requires to us.

We have a Data Retention policy, which sets out how long we must keep information about pupils. The Data Retention policy is located on the Trust website <https://www.catrust.co.uk/>

For more information on how we keep your child's data safe, please see our Data protection policy which is located on the Trust website <https://www.catrust.co.uk/> or contact the School Office.

Some of this information is then stored in the National Pupil Database, which is managed by the Department for Education and provides evidence on how schools are performing. This, in turn, supports research.

The database is held electronically so it can easily be turned into statistics. The information it holds is collected securely from schools, local authorities, exam boards and others.

The Department for Education may share information from the database with other organisations which promote children's education or wellbeing in England. These organisations must agree to strict terms and conditions about how they will use your child's data.

You can find more information about this on the Department for Education's webpage on how it collects and shares research data.

You can also contact the Department for Education if you have any questions about the database.
